Dear Ms. O'Brien:

This responds to your Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) request of March 14, 2013, to the Department of the Army Freedom of Information/Privacy Act Division (DA FOI/PA DIV), for any and all FOIA requests and communications by or between Thomson Reuters Corporation (including their employee); Reuters Group (including their employees); The Washington Post (including their national enterprise editor and independent author David Finkel or other WP employees), and the U.S. Army concerning the July 12, 2007, aerial weapons team Baghdad air strike in the district of New Baghdad and/or a video of the incident entitled: "12 JUL 07 CZ ENGAGEMENT ZONE 30 GC Anyone.avi" (aka: 'Collateral Murder'). On April 5, 2013, the DA FOI/PA DIV forwarded your request to this office and it was received on April 5, 2013.

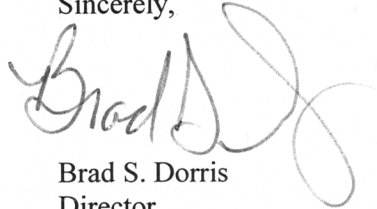

Since additional time is needed to search for the records, we are unable to comply with the statutory 20-day time limit in processing your request. Therefore, you may consider this delay an administrative denial of your request. You are not required to provide any correspondence regarding this delay as we will continue processing your request. You will receive an additional response upon completion of our search. Your agreement to waive the statutory time limit does not prejudice your right to appeal any releasability decision after it is made.

Major General Stephen G. Fogarty, Commanding, U.S. Army Intelligence and Security Command, is the Initial Denial Authority in this matter under the Freedom of Information Act. You may appeal this decision to the Secretary of the Army. If you wish to file an appeal, you should forward it to this office. Your appeal must be postmarked no later than 60 calendar days from the date of this letter (excepting Saturdays, Sundays and legal public holidays). The mailing address is:
